BGSU CAMPUS EVER CHANGING

Construction of new buildings and improvement of existing facilities on the Bowling Green State University campus continued at a rapid pace throughout the summer, and early autumn.

The completion of the Women's Residence Center, which houses 1,221 coeds, boosted the University's on-campus student housing facilities to a record 5,500. The building is located on the corner of Ridge and Thurstin Streets.

The Fine Arts Building addition, used for the first time last summer, will provide modern facilities for every phase of the art curriculum to students this year.

Glazing and roofing operations on the new 10-story Administration Building have been completed. The structure is now completely enclosed so construction may go on uninterrupted throughout the winter. The 1.5 million dollar building is slated for completion next spring.

Ground was broken in July for the new Commons scheduled for completion in September, 1963. The facility will contain four dining rooms and serving areas, and a central kitchen. Each dining room will have a capacity of 300 persons. Two of these rooms may be joined to accommodate large groups. A lounge and snack area will be added on the lower level.

The Commons will serve the residents of Kohl Hall, Rodgers Quadrangle and Conklin Hall.

The east portion of the old Commons was razed to prepare the site for the new building. The west portion of the frame structure will remain in operation during the school year. It will be razed next summer.

The former Theta Chi fraternity house was completely remodeled. The building was transformed into four two-bedroom family apartments for faculty members, its intended purpose originally.

Construction of the new addition to Kohl Hall will begin in the late fall. Schedule for completion by September, 1963, the addition will be built parallel to Wooster Street.

The ground floor will contain the main lounge, recreation areas, offices and central communications facilities. There will be no living quarters on this floor.

The upper three floors will contain a total of 91 two-man rooms which follow the same basic design as those in the Women's Residence Center and Conklin Hall. Each floor will have its own lounges and social, recreational and counseling facilities.

Work on the new Men's Residence Center, to be located east of Conklin Hall, is expected to begin in late fall or early winter. Completion date for the building, which will cost approximately 6.5 million dollars, is slated for September, 1964.

The structure will be composed of four residence halls each containing living facilities for 350 students. Each hall will have its own lounges, recreation areas, counseling facilities, reception desk, and private dining room served by a central kitchen.

Phase one of the new athletic facilities program will begin shortly. Workmen will begin construction on 12 tennis courts, two baseball diamonds, practice football fields and the varsity football field on a 470 acre tract east of Mercer Road.

Work crews under the direction of F. Eugene Beatty, director of building and facilities, worked on many projects during the summer.

DR. RALPH G. HARSHMAN
President

Dr. Ralph G. Harshman, for 25 years a booster of Falcon athletics, served the University as chairman of the athletic committee for 15 years before his appointment as president during the 1961-62 school year.

During his service on this committee, the University joined the Mid-American Conference and the NCAA. The calibre of the teams representing the University has increased substantially and the teams have gained national recognition and several championships.

Dr. Harshman also was vice president, and president for two years, of the MAC, and during his presidency the Conference tightened its rules on grants-in-aid for athletes.

Joining the faculty in 1936 as assistant professor of business administration, Dr. Harshman was appointed dean of the newly organized College of Business Administration one year later. At the same time, he was promoted to the rank of associate professor, and then to professor in 1939.

In 1951 he became dean of administration, and for three years also directed the Summer School. He was promoted to vice president in 1955, serving in that position until late 1960.

TODAY'S GAME

LEAGUE-LEADING BOBCATS CAN CLINCH TITLE TODAY . . .

Ohio University's footballers, although rated a strong contender in pre-season Mid-American Conference forecasts, were "supposed" to be a bit behind Miami and Bowling Green, but a look at the standings shows today's guests riding atop the league with a 4-0 mark and owning a chance to clinch the title today.

The Bobcats have been most impressive in league play, scoring 99 points and limiting opponents to only six. Not one touchdown has been scored on Ohio in the MAC. Miami's Bob Jencks accounted for all six points with field goals.

Coach Bill Hess's men also have swept through three non-league foes easily, scoring 187 points and allowing only 43, both league-leading totals. Only against Dayton were the Bobcats pressed, and they responded in fine style, coming from behind in the final minutes to win a 27-25 thriller.

The men of Athens experienced some difficulties in turning in a mediocre 5-3-1 record last year, but a year of experience has turned them into mistake-free athletes. Hess, who like Doyt Perry stresses "sound" football, has a 34-9-1 record in five years at Ohio, showing his great success with his methods.

Ohio has one of the league's top quarterbacks in Bob Babbitt. In four MAC contests, he has completed 18 of 28 for 285 yards and two touchdowns. None of his throws have been intercepted. His principal target has been halfback Ron Curtis, who has caught eight for 115 yards and two touchdowns in league play.

WIN IS MUST FOR FALCONS' 2ND STRAIGHT CROWN . . .

This is the big one for Bowling Green. It has been apparent to the Falcons since Ohio upended Miami three weeks ago that Ohio was the team to beat if the Falcons wanted their second straight MAC title.

It was so apparent that the BeeGees got caught looking last Saturday at West Texas State when the Buffaloes handed Doyt Perry's men their first loss of the season. Having played Miami the week before and realizing this game was for all the marbles, the Falcons were no match for a fired up Texas team.

But that game is history now and Ohio is here today. The Falcons have played some pretty good football themselves to date. In the MAC they've scored 155 points to 55 for opponents. Over-all it's 176 to 85 for BG. In league statistics the Falcons are first in team offense and defense with averages of 335.6 and 195.2. They've rushed for 1181 yards and passed for 497, while giving up only 409 yards rushing and 567 through the air.

In sophomore Jay Cunningham, BG has the league's top scorer with 36 points. Don Lisbon is third and kicking star

Asa Elsea is fourth with 30 and 27, respectively. Lisbon is sixth and Ray Bell places seventh in MAC rushing, with quarterback Tony Ruggiero seventh in passing. Norm Limpert, who has been a valuable aid in every league game, leads the punters with a 40.2 average.

All signs point to another hard-fought struggle between these two MAC powers. Don't leave your seat until the final gun. It's probable that anything could happen.

BG LEADS TIGHT SERIES, 8-5-1 . . .

The series between Bowling Green and Ohio has been one of football's finest. Although "young" with only 14 games, it has been thrilling, as a six-point spread indicates. The Falcons lead in points scored, 191-185.

Five times in the past 10 years this meeting has decided the conference champion, as it will again today. The three big ones of 1959, 1960 and 1961 are discussed in further detail on page 11 of this program, as BG won two of those. In a situation similar to this year, the Falcons won in 1956 by a 41-27 margin after an earlier deadlock with Miami. In 1953 the Bobcats won the "insurance" game 22-14 as they took the league title.

The series began in 1945 at Athens with a 6-0 BG win. Under Coach Bob Whittaker, the Falcons took the typical thriller with a rugged defense. Fine kicking by Pat Mulvihill kept OU in their territory much of the game, while the defensive work of John Carver and Vern Dunham was outstanding.

Les Rideout blocked an end zone punt in the second quarter of the 1947 contest to give the Falcons a 2-0 verdict in a driving rainstorm. BG won its third straight in 1948 as Max Minnich starred, scoring on a 14-yard pass from Russ Maples and a two-yard run in a 13-7 victory.

OU started a string of its own in 1951 as the undefeated Bobcats won 28-7 for the first of four straight over BG. BG held OU to a 7-7 halftime score on Fred Durig's running, but Ohio's second half comeback buried BG. The Bobcats' 1952 win was an upset by a 33-14 score. The Falcons had lost only one game to that day, but intercepted passes and fumbles were disastrous. Durig's 125 yards running led BG.

The champion Ohio team had to work for the 1953 22-14 win. BG jumped off to a 7-0 lead and, helped by Bill Bradshaw's 52-yard punting average, trailed only 13-7 after three periods before OU clinched it in the final stanza. The last place Falcons didn't win a game in MAC play in 1954, but scared OU 14-13 after three quarters before running out of gas in a 26-14 loss.

BG jumped into a tie for second place with its 13-0 win in 1955, paced by Don Nehlen's TD passes to Jack Hecker. The 1956 game gave BG its first MAC title and fourth undefeated season by a 41-27 score. The favored Falcons were tied 7-7 on a last period "Statue of Liberty" play in 1957, but came back in 1958 in a rainstorm with a 33-6 rout. (The 1959 through 1961 "classics" are on page 11.)

The Bowling Green State University Marching Band

HALF-TIME SHOW

The Bowling Green State University Marching Band, under the direction of Prof. Roy J. Weger and assistant director Richard Ecker and featuring head majorette Andrea Worthington, today features a review of history through music.

1. History has many facets. The band director sees time as a series of events which were influenced by music. One of the earliest bands is mentioned in the Bible. Joshua found trumpets, cymbals and drums were more effective than warriors' typical weapons, and the walls came tumbling down.

2. During the glory that was ancient Rome, the spear and shield were the weapons of gladiators brought into the Colosseum. Thousands of musicians preceded the fighting men. The music was loud and stirring. It told of conquest.

3. The great Napoleon knew the value of martial music to his troops. The formation is a canon of the War of 1812, and the music tells of the war between France and Russia.

4. The big tent, wild animals, daring aerialists, horses, elephants and clowns are related to the three rings which signify "The Greatest Show on Earth." What would it be without the circus band? The majorettes provide the action as the band plays "Grand Entry March."

5. In modern times the band still functions with the military and the circus, but it reaches its greatest musical height performing in the concert hall. Representing the great bands of Sousa, Pryor, Gilmore and Goldman, the Bowling Green band performs excerpts from J. B. Bach's "Toccata in D Minor" in a concert setting.

YESTERYEARS IN BG FOOTBALL

Editor's Note: For the past four years, the Bowling Green State University-Ohio University football game has meant the league title for the winner, although Ohio also has had to play Western Michigan the last two years after the BG game.

The three games before today have been of supreme importance, not only because of the league crown, but because nationwide interest in the contests has resulted in coverage by some of the nation's top newspapers and magazines. Two of the games were for the small college title.

Today's game has the same importance the other three had, and is expected to be as close and exciting as those in the past. The remainder of this page is devoted to highlights of those three games.

BOWLING GREEN vs. OHIO AT ATHENS November 21, 1959 BG 13 OU 9

of the game, it appeared that's what Ohio would do. George Belu's long field goal and John Dickason's touchdown shot Guard Jerry Colaner was the man of the hour as he rambled 50 yards with an intercepted pass in the final period to give the Falcons a come-from-behind 13-9 victory. The win gave Bowling Green its first undefeated and untied season and helped the Orange and Brown retain the No. 1 college division leadership it had gained the previous week with a win over Delaware.

The Bobcats had lost only to Miami before hosting BG in a Dad's Day tilt, but could have tied the Falcons for first place in the conference with a win. For most the hosts into a 9-0 halftime lead.

Sophomore Russ Hepner led a determined third-period BG drive to OU's one-yard line, where the Bobcats held to make it appear BG was headed for a day of frustration. The Falcons got a break minutes later when end Ron Blackledge fell on a OU fumble at its 23. Even then the Falcons were halted before an offside penalty made it first and goal from the 10. Fullback Jerry Dianiska moved it to the four on three plays before Bob Colburn hit Bernie Casey with the scoring toss on fourth down. Chuck Ramsey converted, but Ohio still led, 9-7.

On the second play of the final quarter, OU quarterback Bob Wisniewski let go with a pass which was too long for one OU receiver and too short for another, but just right for Colaner, who hauled it in to score the first, last and most important touchdown of his college career.

The Bobcats threatened several times later in the game, but fumbles slowed their attack. The game ended with BG on the Bobcat one-yard line.

OHIO vs. BOWLING GREEN AT BG November 12, 1960 OU 14 BG 7

Jim Potts

It was Ohio's turn to ruin a Dad's Day celebration, as well as an 18-game winning streak, as the Bobcats wrapped up the MAC and national college division titles with a 14-7 victory.

A record crowd, estimated at 12,660, saw the two evenly matched teams in a hard-fought battle that wasn't decided until Bobcat halfback Bob Harrison slanted over from four yards out for the deciding touchdown in the fourth quarter. The victory gave the Bobcats the title with a 6-0 record, leaving BG second with a 5-1.

The Falcons were hampered by injuries to halfbacks Bernie Casey, Russ Hepner and Chuck Comer, their three top runners, and defensive quarterback Jack Harbaugh. Of the group only Comer, who played briefly, saw action at all.

BG drew first blood in the first quarter after Jim Andrews recovered an OU fumble on the BG 9. From there, the Falcons traveled 91 yards in 18 plays with Don Lisbon scoring from one yard out. Asa Elsea kicked the PAT. Jim Potts' 23-yard keeper was a key play in the drive.

Ohio, which had never been behind the entire season, came back after an exchange of punts, moving 49 yards in five plays with John Dickason scoring from the three. George Belu kicked the equalizer for a 7-7 halftime score.

Near the end of the third quarter, the Bobcats began their winning drive on their own 17. Several plays later, Harrison dashed 23 yards to BG's 33 and a personal foul against the Falcons moved it to the 18. Four plays later, Harrison swept left end for the clincher, dashing BG's hopes for a second straight undefeated season and national title.

Russ Hepner

A goal line stand, the determination of halfback Russ Hepner and the toe of Asa Elsea were the important features of last year's Bowling Green victory. The Falcons clinched a tie for the title with the win, and OU's tie with Western Michigan the following week gave BG the crown outright.

The goal line stand came early in the game as halfback Barry Weaver fumbled on the BG four, with Ohio recovering. Led by this year's co-captain, Gary Sherman, the Falcons dug in and held on downs as the first half ended a scoreless deadlock.

The third period opened with end Dave Hutter taking a short BG kickoff on his 32 and tightropeing down the right sideline for a 68-yard touchdown. Specialist Jim McKee missed the point after—his first failure of the season. It proved costly, as did an earlier missed field goal on the part of one of the nation's best kickers.

Bowling Green finally got a break in the fourth period, recovering an OU fumble on Ohio's 37. Several plays later Hepner, on a fourth down situation, plunged over the right side of OU's line for the tying TD from one yard out. That left it up to Elsea, who had missed in BG's 7-6 loss to Miami earlier in the year. With 13,000 fans watching, he kicked the winning point perfectly.

Fumbles were instrumental in the outcome as the Bobcats lost three. One set up the BG score and a bobble late in the game cost the Bobcats a possible field goal attempt.

PERRY'S BG RECORD IS NATION'S BEST

Bowling Green State University's fine football coach, Doyt Perry, has compiled a won-lost record in his seven years which ranks him first in the nation among the country's active coaches at major colleges.

In those seven years the Falcons have won 53, lost only seven and tied four for a percentage of .859 against teams from the ever-rugged Mid-American Conference and such outside foes as Xavier, Dayton, Delaware, Wichita, Southern Illinois, West Texas and Drake.

Oklahoma's Bud Wilkinson is the only other major college mentor with a better than .800 percentage (.834). Mississippi's John Vaught is just a shade off that mark with his .782.

Perry, who started football at Lorain Clearview in 1937, had an equally amazing high school record there and at Upper Arlington, winning 73, losing 20 and drawing in six games. His coaching totals since 1937 read: 126 wins, 27 losses and 10 ties for an .804 percentage.

College Football—Builder of Men

by WILLIAM D. MURRAY

President, American Football Coaches Association
Head Football Coach, Duke University

In my opinion, college football's greatest contribution lies in developing spirit—the spirit that makes a devoted, loyal, patriotic, unselfish citizen. The very nature of the game itself demands the complete dedication that our nation so desperately needs.

It is not my purpose, in any way, to discount the physical fitness values of football. We hear and read much of our lack of physical fitness and our government is spending much to improve our standing in this. It is obvious that fitness is one of the prime requisites of college football. A player must be in top shape in this great game. Physical fitness, however, can be acquired in many ways.

But on the spiritual side, college football is one of the great forces of American education. This applies not only to the player himself but also, to some extent, for those who only play the game as spectators.

There are many stories I could tell to point to the value of football. I have spent a life-time in the game, as a player in grammar school, high school and college and as a coach in high school, in a so-called "small-time" football college and now at a so-called "big-time" football college.

A football "hero" is not born a hero. He makes it by a rather unglamorous dedication to purpose and many hours of laborious practice. Several years ago a great football game came to its climactic moment. The underdog team had rallied from a 0-20 deficit to a 20-20 tie. A young player came off the bench and calmly and deliberately split the uprights for the extra point that brought his team victory. It was a glamorous occasion for the victors and the hero, of course, was the place-kicker.

But his ability to kick that point did not come easily. On the football field, day after day, during the spring practice period and in the fall playing season, this boy had remained after practice and had been there before practice and had kicked and kicked and kicked, thousands of times. It had become automatic to him. He had by extra hours and hard work prepared himself for this situation.

Examine any player who is a regular on a successful team. You will inevitably find concentration and willingness to devote himself in great measure to the demands of the game. These demands are so rigorous that only those who are willing to dedicate themselves to tremendous physical and mental exertion over a long period of time can make the grade.

The principles of unselfishness so dominate the game that only those individuals who are willing to sacrifice self for the whole make up teams that have continued success. Every player has an exacting job to do during every split second of action—this is team play. To do your job and to have faith in your teammates to do theirs is required. Players who persist in neglecting their own duties to assist in the more glamorous areas of play will never have the honor of representing a championship team.

This spirit of unselfishness and optimism can best be brought out by a story of a game played in the days when substitutes could not return to the game. At the end of the first half we were behind, 7-14. Our players evened the gap early in the second half to make it 14-all. I sent in our place kicker to kick off to the opposing team. The opponents moved the ball to midfield and fumbled. I called our starting guard to go back into the game for our place kicker and he said, "Coach, you don't want me to go back, for if Jim comes out of the game, we won't have anybody to kick the extra point." Unselfish and optimistic was he.

As in no other peacetime area, the game of football demonstrates the use of power that all of us possess—power that lies dormant in the inner confines of our hearts until needed. You are backed to your own goal and now is the time to dig down deep and find those hidden sources of strength or power. Many times individuals and even entire teams have found sources of strength that were beyond their hopes. The understanding that comes from knowing that additional power is within our grasp is another of the great lessons of football.

I could go on and on about the values that accrue from football. Virtually all of us agree that the discipline of football is a valuable educational experience. The problem comes in justifying so-called "big-time" football. Granted that there have been many cases of excesses and abuses (and all of us who are responsible must be ever vigilant to keep the game in its proper focus), the "big-time" game still serves a vital function.

The "big-time" game as it is played in the great stadia throughout the land with all the drama, glamour and excitement that attend it, serves as the inspirational force that attracts literally millions of small fry to its glitter, and thus to the benefits of its influence either vicariously or by direct participation.

MEET THE FALCONS

ASA ELSEA—Center from Circleville who has become the finest place-kicker in Bowling Green history. Elsea also has developed as an all-around player, winning starting duty in several games this year after being third-string his first two years. He's small for pivot action at 185 pounds, but is clever, especially on defense. Asa holds BG extra point records for career with 64 out of 70 attempts. Also has booted four successful field goals for 76 points kicking. His extra point provided margin in last year's 7-6 win over Ohio.

RAY BELL—Fullback from East Palestine in his second year as regular fullback. He's currently second on Falcon team in rushing with 292 yards. Bell was second last year with 416 yards in 104 attempts and led team in scoring with 36 points. Bell's best day this year was at Miami, where he penetrated huge Redskin line for 73 yards. His career high was 79 last year against Miami. Small for a fullback at 5-8, 185 pounds, he works hard and gets the job done. Bell played for BG end coach, Bill Mallory, in high school.

JOE GRANT—Guard from Portsmouth who has been one of BG's defensive standouts this year. He reported late for practice this year, but won position with second team to help weakened guard slot. Grant won his first letter last year after reserve duty in 1959. The BG coaches have always thought highly of his work. He has great offensive movement and is a fine defensive linebacker. An all-state high school star, he also played in the Ohio all-star game.

BERT KENNEDY—End from Mayfield Heights who has shown great improvement this season. Started season with fourth-string status, but battled his way up to starting duty at left end. Kennedy received a lot of notice before Kent game since his brother Mike plays end for Kent. Always dependable on defense, he has developed into a fine pass receiver. Kennedy has caught 4 passes for 48 yards to date. A future coach, he is one of several married players on the team.

BOB CROFCHECK—Tackle from Dayton (Chaminade) who has come into his own as a senior. Constantly improving, he has earned starting nomination from Coach Perry midway through the season. He's been with first or second unit all year at right tackle. Crofcheck earned his first varsity letter last year. He has good size at 6-2, 230, gaining 20 pounds since freshman year. Another fine high school athlete, he played in Ohio all-star game. He joined the married ranks last summer.
